Senior Citizens Center Public Input Sessions

The City of Norman Parks and Recreation Department will be hosting two public input sessions on Tuesday, July 7, 2015 for the purpose of gathering comments and public input for senior citizens center program and facility needs.

Lifespan Design Studio, LLC has teamed with McKinney Partnership Architects to conduct an assessment of the current Norman Library building for use as a new Senior Citizens Center. Rick McKinney is a local Architect who has been involved in several local municipal projects. Lifespan Design Studio is an Architecture firm located in Loveland, Ohio who specializes in senior citizen facility design. McKinney conducted a space study for the municipal complex in 2008 which included the current library building as a proposed location for a new Senior Citizens Center. This project includes updating that study along with the assessment of the Library building.

The first session will be from 2:30-4:30 p.m. in Fenn Hall at McFarlin United Methodist Church, 419 S. University Blvd. Organized senior groups have been invited to attend this session; however, anyone is welcome. The second session will be from 7-9:30 p.m. in the Lowery Room at the Norman Public Library, 225 N. Webster Ave. Seniors are encouraged to attend and offer comments for this important project.

For more information on these sessions, contact Jud Foster, Director of Parks and Recreation at 366-5472 or jud.foster@normanok.gov.
